November Home Learning Suggestions Calendar

The completion of the calendar is highly recommended as the activities support the thinking and skills that are being developed on a daily basis in the classroom. Parental support is encouraged to complete the activities and adapting some of the tasks will be necessary to meet the individual skill levels of each child. Parents are also encouraged to extend, challenge and provoke further thinking when completing the calendar activities. If your child still needs practice with printing letters and numbers, please continue to work on it at home. The calendar is not expected to be handed in at the end of each month. The purpose is to provide the students with an additional opportunity to continue developing their skills from home. Every month a new calendar will be sent home. In addition, we encourage all students to be read to and/or to read to someone everyday.
